DANA POINT, CA, June 30, 2013 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The release of a new interactive enhanced eBook showcases the generational reach of former Beatle, John Lennon, with reflections of art, music and words, inspired by this legendary artist.

John Lennon lives and entertains as the spirit and inspiration for A Lennon Pastiche: Expressions from Fans of John Lennon, now available at the iBookstore for $5.99 (<http://bit.ly/LennonPastiche>), an enhanced interactive extrapolation from author Judith Furedi's 2009 coffee-table book publication, John Lennon: In Their Own Words, a loving tribute from his friends and fans.

Lennon novices and quadra-decade true believers in his music and message have all contributed to this immersive entry into digital publishing, which stirs and evokes emotions by virtue of the original multimedia creative content and interactive programming, edited by Pangea.

“You won't find mere John Lennon hero worship and emulation in this enhanced eBook. You will find yourself immersed in an interactive opus, chockfull of original visual art, music, poetry and moving digital images created and contributed by some of John Lennon's artistically gifted friends and fans, capturing the spirit of the pop culture and messages that John Lennon inspires,” assures John Schulte, one of the editors of the collection.

From the sweet memory of a moment by Lennon's former lover, May Pang, to musical musings of a teenage girl from the suburbs of Southern California who is inspired by Lennon's melodic technique, A Lennon Pastiche compiles emotional and intellectual content in a new genre of multimedia entertainment that speaks to generations of fans, readers, artists and Baby Boomers.

The enhanced eBook is smartly sectioned into Art, Words, Music and Interviews. From Mad Magazine's master caricaturist and Reuben Award Winner, Tom Richmond, to stirring sentiments from former Beatles promoter, Sid Bernstein, there's unique content that is filtered from fellow artists and fervent fans. Kirkus Reviews commented that the artworks of “Australian ‘emerging visual communicator’ Kaliopy have a weirdly Ralph Steadman-esque vibe that might have suited Lennon in his exile-from-Yoko period.” Songwriters and composers contributed over a dozen pieces to this tome, including an unusual offering from BBC Scotland's Head of Technology, John Hobbs, and a poignant, touching song by Irish performer, Anthony Toner. An insightful interview from Gold Record recipient Andy Boettner of The Captain and Tennille serves as a counterpoint to the fan and crowd statements recorded during a Los Angeles performance of the Plastic Ono Band.

A Lennon Pastiche: Expressions from Fans of John Lennon offers fans and aficionados a community to share, celebrate, reflect and be entertained by fellow creative kindred spirits. Whether one is a true

Lennon believer, a casual fan, a student of the four decades of music, pop culture, thought and art that John Lennon influenced, or a Lennon novice searching to connect, this enhanced eBook will entertain with its unique blend of perspectives delivered through a dynamic medium.
