

Major Mom Commits to Hiring Military Veterans in 2015

From the Military to Mom to Professional Organizer, Angela Cody-Rouget AKA Major Mom, combats clutter as a major business owner.

PHOENIX, AZ, USA, January 15, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Major Mom has made a commitment to the US Chamber of Commerce to hire 50 veterans over the next year. There are 500,000 soldiers being right-sized out of the military. Major Mom wants to put them to work to help the organization's mission of restoring order to the world. Major Mom, a veteran-owned company, is building a national brand, ramping up operations and hiring "Liberators" in Phoenix, Tucson, Tulsa, Chicago, Tampa, Houston and Colorado Springs.

The Major Mom team is comprised of professional organizers who are highly skilled and well trained at de-cluttering and setting up customized, achievable and sustainable systems in various types of households. Their mission is to restore order and serenity to homes and home offices through professional organization services.

The founder and CEO of Major Mom®, Angela Cody-Rouget walks her talk. She has 2 decades of training in order management. She served in the U.S. Air Force for 18 years (10 years active duty, 4 years in the reserves +4 years in AFROTC) and she embraces and thrives in orderly environments. Major Mom offers a 10% military discount to veterans and active duty personnel.

Major Mom's Great Team Of Organizers

"The Major Mom liberators are regular moms like me who know how to work hard and get a project completed in record time. They are fun, personable, intelligent, and hard working. I love the way they keep me on task. I continue to call them as new projects come up: Organizing the basement, the garage, you name it!" says Penny Myers, a Major Mom client in Highlands Ranch, CO.

Getting organized is not a luxury, it is a necessity. Learn more about Major Mom at www.majormom.biz.
