

Artists Get Creative on the White Walls of Alys Beach, Florida

Digital Graffiti 2016 transforms the stark white walls of Alys Beach into a canvas of art for the ninth year in a row.

ALYS BEACH, FL, UNITED STATES, May 13, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Digital Graffiti returns to Alys Beach, Florida for the ninth year in a row. This unique projection art festival invites artists from around the world to showcase their original work on the white walls of Alys Beach using the latest digital technologies. Design, technology and architecture will mesh together to turn this beach town into a work of art.

Along with the many admirers of art, technology and architecture there will be digital artists, filmmakers, musicians, interactive designers, photographers, VJs, producers and celebrities present at the event. Winning artists are awarded thousands of dollars in cash prizes. Artist Yandell Walton from Melbourne, Australia won Best of Show in 2015 for his use of responsive technology in the “Human Effect”. This piece features a wall full of green plants that wither and die when a person touches them. A special “meet the artists of 2016” series will be featured on the Digital Graffiti website each week.

Digital Graffiti begins Friday, May 13th with the Curator’s Tour from 7:30 to 10:30pm. The tour will feature select pieces chosen by Curator Brett Phares along with signature dishes from local restaurants. On Saturday, May 14th the official Digital Graffiti 2016 Festival begins at 8:00pm. Pedestrian paths lead spectators through digital art projections from 20 artists from all over the globe. The festival ends on May 15th with a Sunday brunch and discussion with the artists and judges from 11:00am to 1:00pm.
