"We engaged George several months ago to assist us in our expansion efforts and in this time he's been instrumental in driving key relationships with partners and customers," said Ravi Goyal, president and CEO, Sureline Systems. "George is a seasoned and trusted leader who has consistently delivered results."

George Symons has been a successful entrepreneur in the datacenter IT solutions space, with over 25 years of IT infrastructure experience. Before working with Sureline Systems, he was Gridstore's CEO and a member of its board of directors. While there he grew year-over-year growth of the company over 340% from 2015 to 2016. Prior to Gridstore Symons was Chief Strategy Officer at Nexsan, culminating in its acquisition by Imation. Prior to Nexsan he held executive roles in storage companies including Xiotech Corporation (COO), EvoStor (CEO), Yosemite Technologies (CEO), EMC (CTO for Information Management), and Legato (CTO, VP of Development and Product Management). He has also held senior roles at FullTime Software, Software Research, PROCASE Corporation, and Sun Microsystems. Mr. Symons has bachelor degrees in Computer Science and Management Science from UCSD and an MBA from UCLA.

"With the rapid adoption of cloud computing by all sizes and types of enterprises, easy and seamless migration has become a must-have for IT professionals," said George Symons, COO Sureline Systems Inc. "Sureline's unique solution automates this process while mitigating risk, and is poised for rapid growth."
