

Council For Adult And Experiential Learning International Conference Set For November 9-11

"Partners in Progress: Unite to Educate America's Workforce"

CHICAGO, IL, USA, August 23, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ --

The Council for Adult and Experiential Learning (CAEL) is finalizing plans for its 2016 International Conference to be held in Chicago November 9-11 at the Palmer House Hilton, CAEL CEO and President Pamela Tate announced today.

The event, Partners in Progress: Unite to Educate America's Workforce, will feature guest speakers, workshops, roundtable sessions and networking opportunities designed to best help adult learners succeed.

When asked about the conference Tate said, "This year's theme: "Partners in Progress: Unite to Educate America's Workforce," examines partnerships among universities and colleges, corporations, government, non-profit organizations, and workforce developers. Attendees will learn how we can work together to help adults thrive in their educational aspirations and flourish in their careers."

CAEL's annual conference brings together more than 500 participants to learn, network, and work together to make lifelong learning accessible to adults around the world. Attendees include college faculty and administrators, HR professionals, workforce developers and representatives from labor and government.

"Over the past several years the landscape of adult learning has exploded with new concepts and approaches, all designed to help adult learners get the credentials and degrees they need to advance in their careers. Some of the best recognized names in the field will be at this conference to discuss what's working, best practices and how we can work together to shape a more effective future. Attendees can learn from these innovators, network with other adult student champions, and exchange ideas. If you are a leader in higher education, you can't afford to miss it," concluded Tate.

According to Paul Fain, News Editor of Inside Higher Ed, attending CAEL's International Conference is a valuable experience. "Lifelong learning is hot, drawing more interest from policy makers, the news media and the general public. That's why it's important to hear from folks with deep experience in working with adult and nontraditional students. I've learned a lot at CAEL conferences, which cover these issues with a great range of depth and breadth," he said.

For more information visit www.cael.org.

The Council for Adult and Experiential Learning (CAEL) is a nonprofit 501(c) (3) organization based in Chicago, Illinois that assists adults with their educational endeavors, finding practical ways to earn college credit for learning acquired through training and work experiences. CAEL works with the public sector, private sector industries and higher education institutions to ensure that adult students receive the most efficient training and education to occupy a meaningful professional place in a 21st century economy. Since 1974, CAEL has assisted colleges and universities in providing college credit for prior learning. CAEL is the recognized national expert on a method known as portfolio assessment, and their Ten Standards for Assessing Learning are used by colleges and universities, as well as accrediting organizations, across the country.

Jackie Clark
Council for Adult and Experiential Learning
3017284811
email us here

This press release can be viewed online at: <http://www.einpresswire.com>

Disclaimer: If you have any questions regarding information in this press release please contact the company listed in the press release. Please do not contact EIN Presswire. We will be unable to assist you with your inquiry. EIN Presswire disclaims any content contained in these releases.

© 1995-2016 IPD Group, Inc. All Right Reserved.