PUNE, INDIA, September 2, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Global Private and Public Cloud Market in the Financial Services Industry

Financial services are the services offered by the financial sector to help credit companies, insurance companies, account companies, banks, investment fund firms, and finance firms to manage capital. The financial services industry is shifting toward the adoption of cloud for business operations to avoid IT infrastructure costs and operational expenditure. Cloud improves performance, increases efficiency, and ensures the security of business operations and business data.

There are many vendors offering cloud-based solutions to financial services based on their business requirements. Both private and public cloud solutions are used in the financial services industry. Private cloud solutions are used more often by financial institutions as they offer better security of financial data, flexibility when expanding their operations, and customization based on business requirements.
