Description

Wiseguyreports.Com Adds “Ballistic Protection -Market Demand, Growth, Opportunities and analysis of Top Key Player Forecast to 2021” To Its Research Database

Most of major defense spenders such as the US, UK, Germany, China, Russia, India are directing their investments on armed personnel protection. The armed personal protection refers to the ballistic protection given to the armed forces, homeland security and law enforcement officers, private security officials, and their vehicles from projectiles such as bullets, explosive materials, falling glass materials, mortar shrapnel, and mines. Growing violence and an increase in the number of terrorist threats and attacks are major factors that have elevated the demand for ballistic protection equipment.
