CEE AVIATION CONFERENCE'S 2016 ANNUAL EVENT

The CEE Aviation Conference 2016 will cover the latest industry news and updates, current technologies and future trends of the aviation sector. We also aim to analyze airline and airport business development strategies in the CEE region, all while providing business networking opportunities for guests, sponsors, speakers and the media. Taking place 11-12 October in the Continental Zara Hotel in Budapest, Hungary, the conference features Great Speakers confirmed at the conference:

Dr. Michael Kerkloh, CEO & President, Munich Airport, Mr Ofer Kisch, Regional Director, Deutsche Lufthansa AG, Mr Thomas Reynaert, Managing Director of Airlines for Europe A4E, Mr Gediminas Almantas , CEO, Lithuanian Airports, Ms Anca Apahidean, Area Manager Eastern Europe, IATA, Mr. Tony Barker, CEO, PAXPORT, Mr David Gomes- Commercial Director, TRAVELPORT, Mr Gyula Hangyál Head of ATM, Hungarocontrol, Mr Wolfgang Fasching, Head of Handling Services of Vienna Airport, Ms. Skaist Knyzait, Managing Director of AviationCV.

The CEE region is currently among the most dynamic regions in Europe. Its aviation industry is experiencing a rapid growth which follows the trend among Western European countries. Strong industrialization in the recent years along with more disposable income is driving the aviation sector on both corporate and recreational levels. Flag carriers are maintaining growth and are turning profitable due in part to lower oil prices. And so LCC carriers are set for exponential growth. Our aim is for the conference to be the Business Forum in the long run for the region's industry leaders and in doing so, to offer a strong networking opportunity to do business and to exchange best practices.

Several sessions and presentations, case studies and best practice sessions will take place on 11-12 October. EU Commission, IATA, E4U and Europe and CEE's prominent Airline and Airport Heads will discuss the latest trends and deliver their best practice models with the aim to take the CEE region to a next level. The 2016 CEE Aviation Annual Conference will provide a forum to reflect on the relationship between the internationalization through aviation and institutional responses to these important global challenges.

Conference subthemes include

- NEW AVIATION STRATEGY FOR EUROPE
