The ITFirms.co rankings emphasize on quality of the end product, with companies ranking on up to different measures of quality development process. Overall, the rankings focus on the number of successful projects delivered till date- including their experience and expertise. The detailed analysis process includes evaluation on industry experience, market presence, number of certified experts working on individual projects, combination effectiveness with the client during project management, meeting the timelines and budget constraints, client satisfaction level, keeping abreast of modern technologies, tools and frameworks and quality analysis before final delivery.

That said, the ranking process undergoes rigorous filtering and then the companies are assigned their respective grades, which is why ITFirms.co rankings are trusted by all- from established brands to medium-level enterprise to startups.

Most companies mentioned here carry out a strict in-house project development, which certainly sets them apart from the rest as full-fledged project companies are preferred over the ones relying on freelancing. A one-to-one, frequent client communication is only possible with an in-house development company.

Companies like Blue Fountain Media, Konstant Infosolutions, OpenXcell, Appster have seen acquiring a top ranking in more than one categories, which clearly indicates their potential to develop seamless apps and intuitive websites with a command over different modern technologies.
