

Skid Steer Loader Market Overview, Manufacturing Cost Structure Analysis, Growth Opportunities & Restraints to 2022

Skid Steer Loader Market is expected to grow over the CAGR of around 8% during the period 2016 to 2022

PUNE, MAHARASHTRA, INDIA, March 17, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Market Highlights

The global skid steer loader market tremendously growing as there is boom of the construction industry with the increasing urbanization. This increase in urbanization has led to the rise in the number of construction projects in developing nations, thereby escalating the demand for skid-steer loaders. The huge cost of equipment is leading to the growth of the rental business, making it one of the major trends emerging in the market.

Having equipment on rental basis is a cost-effective alternative for customers that also promote the growth of the market. However, the rise in manufacturing costs of loaders due to the increase in the price of raw materials shrinks the profit margin of manufacturers, thus acting as a restraint to the growth of the market.

The major factor driving the growth of the global skid steer loader market is the recent increase in the number of infrastructural projects, such as the construction of highways, railways, roads, and ports. The emergence of the concept of smart cities is also contributing substantially to the growth of skid steer loader market. Migration of people to urban areas is attracting investments for the development of smart cities. Such development projects involve the adoption of advanced technology in their construction processes, which drives more demand for skid-steer loaders.

The report has been analyzed based on the applications and regions. Among applications, the residential sector is expected to grow with the increase in use of small and compact skid steer loaders. This sector is also flourishing with the trend of providing skid steer loaders on rental basis. The lightweight properties of skid steer loaders so as to be tailored with other equipment are also contributing to the growth of this sector. Generally, commercial landscapers and general contractors in the residential sector prefer this size of machines for lifting heavy pallets, moving dirt with higher-capacity buckets and loading & unloading tandem-axle trucks.
