

Science and Religion Are Both Two Sides of the Same Coin.

Religion is telling us to become wisdom; while science is trying to know, understand and teach emotional intelligence. They are both trying to make man wise.

RIDGEFIELD PARK, NEW JERSEY, UNITED STATES, May 19, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In science, every quest begins with a question mark. In religion, it is already laid out as law. But if we examine the religion then we can see that religion's goal is the manifestation of the divine soul. In science, this domain is still fuzzy though the purpose of the mind sciences is now becoming the actualization of the full humanness potential; the development of emotional intelligence to the most healthy level. The divine soul is the very essence of man which is the same as the goals of science to make everyone as loving and as human as possible.

It is clear that when it comes to wisdom, religion boldly tells you to follow the ways of the wise. Religion wants you to follow the wise path as law! Perhaps the Prophets knew that till humanity can find out and define wisdom, wisdom ways must be enforced by law! And who can blame religion for this?

Mainstream science mostly gave up researching wisdom but has now come around to studying emotional intelligence, which is the scientific term for wisdom. So both science and religion are again seeking the same goal.

The ultimate goals of science and religion are one and the same: the emancipation of man. Religion aims to teach us the truth and science works to uncover reality. Reality and truth are the same entity. At least as far as the mind sciences are concerned both seek the same truth. Religion tries to give man wisdom. Science aims to give man emotional intelligence. At the most advanced level, emotional intelligence and wisdom are one and the same. So the words may be different, but the truth and the reality are the same. Even the paths may be different, but the destination is the same; to give man wisdom/emotional intelligence.

Religion says again and again that the word is the bottom line. The word is the concept/description of truth. Science says it is the idea/phenomena behind the forces of nature that man must define as close to reality as possible. It means both are trying to get to the very nature of truth/reality.

In one word religion wants you to be good and do good, to know and follow the truth. Science wants nothing but the same. They both want man to actualize his full emotional-intelligence/wisdom potential.

The time has come for science and religion to embrace each other and work together as their goals are one and the same.

Religion is way ahead of science when it comes to emotional intelligence. Religion is saying that the aim is to BECOME wisdom while science is trying to TEACH emotional intelligence. Here is the detailed paper on this controversy:
