

Up and Rising Private Equity Firm: Great Western Consortium Inc.

NEW YORK, USA, September 1, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The first generation of Wall Street's Barbarians at the Gate have taken their firms public and charted out ambitious expansions into hedge funds, debt financing and real estate.

Now there is a new breed of private equity firms emerging, especially worth mentioning is the Nevada based private equity firm, Great Western Consortium Inc.

Both people who work in the asset class, and investors who put money into private equity funds say, GWC Inc. is the industry's rising star.

The firm also appears to have learned from their predecessors' missteps. Many big private equity firms larded investments with debt in the pre-crisis years, with that debt later proving difficult to pay down.

The new class of private equity up-and-comers has stuck to smaller, more conservative deals and focused on raking in impressive returns.
