

nexogy® is Helping Businesses Affected by Hurricane Harvey

We are giving businesses affected by winds and flooding two free months of service.

CORAL GABLES, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, September 1, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Hurricane Harvey has unloaded record rainfall totals in Texas and Louisiana this week. As of this posting, more than 286,500 people are still without power. Flooding has inundated businesses and homes all over the region. The scope of the damage is truly jaw-dropping.

nexogy, a leading business telephone systems provider, is giving businesses affected by winds and flooding two free months of service to help them during this critical time. Furthermore, new service can be established in 48-72 hours so operations can continue and further losses can be avoided.

"As Floridians, we understand the impact and consequences hurricanes can have on your city and business. We want to help our fellow business owners continue running their business, even if they don't have access to their office, or there is no power. Cloud technology allows us to do that." said Carlos Lahrssen, CEO at nexogy

Although the rains have finally stopped in Houston, recovery will be a slow and painful process in many locations. You've worked hard to establish your business, and we want to do everything we can to minimize losses and help you weather this crisis. We stand ready to assist you with any questions you have about accessing and using nexogy to keep operations going.

A huge number of businesses will lose their business after being hit by this natural disaster if they are not able to reestablish operations soon. The nexogy hosted PBX system provides the flexibility to answer business phone calls wherever you are.

Keep your business up and running

Stay safe and Connected

We are here for you
