

Dr. John Stewart of Biophysica to be Featured on CUTV News Radio

TORONTO, ONTARIO, CANADA, November 8, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- When asked "What is the most powerful energy in the universe?" Albert Einstein responded, "Imagination."

Like so many scientists, Einstein is a hero to biophysicist Dr. John Stewart. Einstein's research into the field of quantum physics inspired Dr. Stewart to seek new methods to affect changes in the human body and mind.

Today, Dr. Stewart leads Biophysica, a consortium of professional consultants – a biologist, an electrical engineer, a physicist, a mechanical engineer and a computer scientist – who collaborate to invent new products for healing that are non-invasive and have no side-effects.

"It's our life passion," says Dr. Stewart. "Why do some people climb Mount Everest? We are like athletes, Olympic scientists. We have that passion, just like our heroes Einstein and Tesla. We're here to use our passion, our training and our knowledge for the benefit of mankind."

Biophysica has a special interest magnetic field and light therapy, which have been well proven to offer major benefits. Biophysica's primary products, however, are their colloidal mineral generator, specifically for colloidal silver.

Colloidal silver is the most important life-saving remedy on the planet because it can deactivate our worst enemy: viruses”

“Colloidal silver is the most important life-saving remedy on the planet because it can deactivate our worst enemy. And our worst enemy is not the government, not the terrorists, not the gangster, but viruses,” says Dr. Stewart.”

Dr. Stewart was first introduced to colloidal silver over 20 years ago. A friend had developed chronic fatigue syndrome and presented his research on the limited information that was available to Dr. Stewart.

“I was kind of skeptical at first how silver could inactivate viruses that cause chronic fatigue syndrome,” recalls Dr. Stewart. “I did my own research and realized that there was a very strong foundation.

Colloidal is a unique state. When ions combine with the hydrochloric acid of the stomach they become insoluble and ineffective. But colloidal is a suspension and the colloidal form of mineral is the most bio-available.

“I thought at first, I don't want to take metal into my body, but we take metal into our body every day,” explains Dr. Stewart. “Iron, magnesium, zinc, silver and gold are essential minerals for the proper functioning of the enzymes in our body. At very low dilutions, colloidal silver can be extremely effective.”

And it's not just silver. Colloidal gold has benefits on the brain and on arthritis. Colloidal magnesium benefits the heart, nerves and muscles. Colloidal zinc can benefit the immune system and the thymus gland. Colloidal iron. Colloidal platinum. Colloidal palladium. Colloidal copper for hair and skin. Biophysica's colloidal generators produce all of these colloidal minerals, both portable colloidal generators and industrial.

“There are more and more people realizing that alternative health and non-invasive methods are the way to go,” says Dr. Stewart. “The alternative health industry is multi-billion-dollar industry. So there is a real change in popular belief and trust in these remedies.”

CUTV News Radio will feature Dr. John Stewart in an interview with Jim Masters on November 10th and November 17th at 4pm EST.
