/EINPresswire.com/ -- Reservation Counter,

a leading online hotel accommodation provider, today announced that Zoey Spellman of Youngstown State University is the recipient of the company's fall semester scholarship. Every fall and spring semester, Reservation Counter rewards students who have a passion for travel and giving back to their communities.

"Zoey has displayed a maturity well beyond her years, using her free time to give back and better her community," said Jason Burgess, communications director at Reservation Counter. "We're excited to award Zoey with the fall semester scholarship as she pursues her passion for chemistry, a higher education and travel."

Zoey was recognized for her academic achievements at her high school in Jefferson, Ohio. When she's not in class, Zoey is a prominent member of the local 4-H community, helping with benefit dinners, making cards and placeholders for nursing homes, and participating in the local fire hall fish fry every month. While at 4-H, she helped raise over $1,000 for a family in order to make their Christmas memorable. Zoey's love for travel and chemistry, her major at Youngstown State University, came from her parents and high school chemistry teacher.

Education and travel has always been a passion of mine. In high school, my chemistry teacher was a world traveler and would tell her travels to the class. It sparked my interest in wanting to explore.”
