

Quality Resolution Systems LLC to Assist Automotive Industry 2018 plans for growth

Michigan consultancy firm set to meet with General Motors, Ford Motor Company, and Fiat Chrysler Automobiles

DETROIT, MI , USA, January 1, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Quality Resolution Systems has announced plans to increase their work with American automakers. Their aim is to help resolve concerns about industry standards and internal company policies in 2018, its publicist announced today.

CEO of Quality Resolution Systems, Kiara Thomas, believes that by addressing systemic and internal concerns, her Detroit-based consultancy can expand its presence and deliver solutions to Ford, FCA, and GM.

Thomas has previously worked with and for GM, Ford, FCA or one of their major suppliers. She says that findings in a recent study conducted by QRS, LLC show a pattern of reoccurring problems. She added that cultures resistant to adaptability made it apparent that change and solutions are needed.

During her employment with FCA, Kiara Thomas recognized the opportunity for a new venture. Shortly thereafter, she formed her consulting firm, Quality Resolution Systems, LLC.

Thomas says the analytical data and extensive research from the firm's study could potentially bridge functional gaps between corporate and support operations. With a focus on people, processes, and product, she hopes to sit down with the CEOs of General Motors, Ford Motor Company, and Fiat Chrysler Automobiles to discuss specific industry solutions.

“Specific concepts purposed to redesign business operations for the automotive industry are always a viable strategy when it’s clear that there’s a need,” explained Fran Briggs, Publicist to Quality Resolutions Systems, LLC. “That’s what this consultancy is prepared to deliver to Ford, FCA, and GM,” she concluded. Kiara Thomas stated that strategic planning which minimizes cost as it increases revenue, as well as innovative business operations and marketing strategies, can expand the functionality of the industry. The firm’s objectives include a greater emphasis on ensuring and increasing employee safety, production, and over-all employee gratification.
