COLORADO SPRINGS, CO, USA, February 8, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Springs of Life Church and Childcare Center in Colorado Springs is seeking the help of a gifted Administrative Pastor with strong analytical and business skills. The church and childcare ministries are growing fast, and Senior Pastor Dan Finnegan says they need the right leader for the job who can fill both administrative and pastoral roles.

Finnegan says that the new Administrative Pastor should be an entrepreneurial person with a heart and call to ministry, with good management and discipleship skills.

"Our ministry model is unique in that we get to interact with hundreds of children and families in our community each day as a childcare provider," Finnegan said. "With that relationship comes a responsibility to be the hands and feet of the gospel to our neighbors in Colorado Springs."

He says that given the service-oriented nature of the ministry, the church's new Administrative Pastor job should demonstrate a life pattern of service, including following Jesus personally, and serving in the ministry of a church.

"It's very challenging to live out our ministry goals in the day-to-day operations of a busy childcare center," he says. "But we need an Administrative Pastor who can do that, as well as keep an eye on growing our impact in our community."

The new position will report directly to the Senior Pastor, and will oversee the work of 10 to 12 administrative staff in various areas of the ministry. These areas of oversight include church finances, children's center finances, family childcare payments and communications, front desk receptionist and liaison to families, information technology, and shared pastoral roles.
