

Country AF Radio Drops the Needle in Las Vegas

Internet Based Country Radio Station Launches, Names Veteran Radio Pro Kris Daniels Program Director

LAS VEGAS, NV, USA, March 9, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Chris Lowden, Stoney's Rockin' Country Founder and now radio host hack, announced today that alongside Toad and Kris Daniels, he's launched Country AF Radio from the legendary Country venue on The Strip in Las Vegas. "Finally a station I love to listen to", begins country music advocate, Lowden. "Being able to support these incredible new artists, most of whom perform here at Stoney's, on a national free radio platform is just super cool and I hope our new listeners feel the same way," declares Lowden.

Veteran radio pro, Kris Daniels has been named Program Director and Host of the morning show. "This is the most fun I've ever had sharing my love and passion for ALL country music, not just the Top 30," declares Daniels, "but the wonderful world of emerging artists, true country, southern rock and yes, even pop country."

"Finally, a place that brings together the staples in country music, new and emerging artists as well as a morning show to add a little kick to your coffee cup!" declares Toad.

The radio venture marks a significant leap in Stoney's Rockin' Country's profile in the country music industry on the West Coast and nationally. Their novel approach sparks a return to a time when live country music and radio were hand-in-glove. Further programming is forthcoming while Stoney's Rockin' Country continues presenting national emerging, cutting-edge country acts at Stoney's Rockin' Country. The property returns to the national stage in April as the home for the ACM Party for a Cause concert festival grounds and main stage. About Stoney's Rockin' Country
