St Martin Villas

The island was been hit hard after Hurricane Irma this past September, but the progress so far has been impressive, and the island needs all the support from guests and repeat clients. By visiting the island, this will help encourage the islanders to continue their incredible efforts of getting the island back to its former glory. Exceptional Villas are now accepting reservations for guests traveling from April 1st onwards.

It is a great time to visit the island as now we have some beautiful villas ready to welcome our guests”

Niamh McCarthy

Each villa on the guest ready list has been personally inspected by our property manager's team on the island to make sure they meet the high standards that Exceptional Villas maintain. Grand Case airport (SFG) is fully functional and Princess Juliana airport (SXM) receiving daily flights too. Princess Juliana Airport will be fully operational from April 1st with regular direct flights available from New York, Newark, Miami, Atlanta, Paris, Amsterdam, and Toronto.

Electricity, Satellite, and internet have been restored for all the guest ready homes and the island water supplies are perfect as St Martin has had plenty of rain over the last few months. All roads have been cleared and the island has 80% street lighting and it is very easy to drive to where you want to go just like before Irma.

The beaches are open to the public and are all swimmable and pristine with crystal clear turquoise waters and soft whites sand. The island is as beautiful as it was before with stunning sandy beaches and breath-taking views and it is hard to believe that the island went through a category five storm just a few months ago.

“It is a great time to visit the island as now we have some beautiful villas ready to welcome our guests” says Niamh McCarthy, St Martin specialist for Exceptional Villas. Many of the restaurants, bars, and businesses have reopened around the island ensuring each guest has a wonderful stay and experience on the island. We really want to encourage more of our guests to visit as they do need every inch of support to continue thriving. St Martin has made such an impressive recovery so far and we want to help the island in any way we can

Exceptional Villas would be delighted to assist in finding their guests the perfect property in St Martin. They expect to have another list of guest ready properties later this month. For further information Click Here
