18 - 19 April London gathered around it so many entrepreneurs, pioneers, founders, advisors, programmers, marketers, directors, managers, scientists and other skilled and talented professionals in different spheres.

At that exhibition were presented many interesting and promising projects.

The exhibition was held in constant dynamics. Nobody was bored, everyone wanted to talk about himself, his project, the company. At this exhibition it was easy to make useful acquaintances, declare yourself, make new friends and business partners. The atmosphere of the exhibition was getting out of the habitual situation of the foggy Albion. London became a bit more friendly these days. Tightness and snoring fell into the background.

The speech which was dedicated to the project EIPlatform was warmly received by guests and participants of that exhibition. Our colleague Leo presented our project as the most interesting and promising project of the year. He said, that our project has great meaning for the world community. Day by day EIPlatform accumulates a large army of fans and supporters around the world.

It should be noticed that even before this exhibition our project caused great stir among the funds, companies and investors, as well as among the communities in esports. People understand that the project promises global changes in the structure of business processes.

Our platform as well as the ecosystem created on its basis will make it much more convenient, accessible and quality, the system of work by schemes like: P2P, P2B, B2P and B2B.

Transactions between participants will be carried out directly, everyone will know their client, there will be a direct dialogue and interaction process, no more third-party agencies and intermediaries.

A convenient and intuitive interface will be accessible to everyone, equal rights of participants will be ensured, huge work will be done to accumulate and form a client base. Convenience for everyone!

Here is the slogan of EIPlatform.
