If you are a primary caregiver for a loved one in need it is often a fulfilling bonding experience for a family. However, at times it can be stressful and be exhausting for whoever is providing the proper care. On top of work, caring for children, and maintaining your own daily life routine, it could be hard to find balance and time to recharge. Luckily, Comfort Keepers of Robbinsville, NJ offers in-home respite care that will allow you to take the well-deserved break needed to recharge your batteries.

Everybody needs time to recharge themselves at one point or another. Especially if you're selflessly caring for a loved one in need. Respite care offers the opportunity to take that much needed break."

Joe Fuhrman, Owner Comfort Keepers, NJ

In the summer months, your family often plans getaways to escape the everyday hustle and bustle. This could also reign true when needing a short break from caregiving a loved one. Respite care would be something invaluable for your family while planning a vacation where your loved one is unable to join. It offers security in knowing your loved one is safe with a professionally trained caregiver.

What is respite care?

Respite care, also known as "short break" care, allows for an in-home caregiver to relieve the primary caregiver of their duties temporarily so they can refresh and take the time needed to tend to their own tasks. Whether it be for a few short hours, or even a few days, Comfort Keepers offers you ease of mind knowing your loved one is being properly cared for.

Respite care may be scheduled for a few hours a week or extended around the clock care for a few days. Summer months offer a time for vacations, graduations, or even weddings that may take you far away from home. If your loved one is unable to come along for the trip, no need to worry. Comfort Keepers will provide care for your loved one while you enjoy a change of scenery.

How do I know respite care is right for me?

If you are the caregiver for a loved one in need and need to make time to tend to daily tasks but are finding it impossible, respite care may be the answer you're looking for.

Scheduling a short visit with a respite care caregiver would allow you the time to:

- Take care of errands
- Complete any shopping
- Join a support group to attend
- Attend doctor appointments
- Relax and recharge

Scheduling an extended respite care visit would allow you the time to:

- Vacation
- Attend a faraway event
- Wedding
- Graduation
- Retreat

As the primary caregiver for a loved one, you may get easily drained from neglecting to make time for yourself. If you are overwhelmed and exhausted, you then, in turn, may not be able to provide the best quality care for the person you love in need.

Everyone needs a break sometimes, and should not be ashamed to admit you need help. The summer is the perfect time to retreat and refresh yourself while a respite caregiver takes care of your loved one.
