About Hope San

Designed by Boston-based naval architects John G. Alden & Co, Hope San was built by the Cheoy Lee Shipyard in Kowloon—a region of Hong Kong—China, in 1958 for Charles E. Burt, who had her shipped to Cape Cod. She was originally named Sai Shun, which means Little Boat in Chinese.

Patrick (who is a USCG licensed Captain) and First Mate Monika honor Hope San's incredible legacy by keeping her in beautiful shape to honor Hope San's 60th year by sailing her as much as possible.

Hope San is a Nordfarcer design, has a yawl rig, a classic full keel, and measures 41 feet, 7 inches overall. A true classic sailing yacht with elegant lines and a pedigreed cruising history, she is one of a few—perhaps only two—Nordfarcer designs built entirely of wood: her masts are laminated spruce, her frames, floors and keel are constructed out of yakal (an extremely dense and strong tropical hardwood) and her planks, brightwork and interiors are made of teak.

Over the decades Hope San has raced in the Museum of Yachting Classic Yacht Regatta in Newport, Rhode Island annually, with a full crew of family members guiding her to several class victories. With her photogenic lines and sleek black hull, Hope San appeared in numerous yachting magazines, including Sailing and on the cover of Cruising World in 1986.

Hope San can be chartered by small families or groups of up to six people for private day sails on Narragansett Bay. Click here to inquire about charters.
